SEASON #10 (WINTER 2004) SEASON RECAP:

Mission Accomplished. The Phantoms met their goal of reaching their tenth-anniversary season. Few teams ever reach this mark and during the first ten seasons of Phantoms Hockey, the team has been among the best at Rivertown and very consistent. However, every now and then the teams that are expected to accomplish something fail. That was the case during this season, as the Phantoms despite a skilled roster would only capture three victories on the season. The team would go from having nine skaters at the start of the season, to seven at the end. The team in no way played horrible, but the communication and game style of the team did not match. The Phantoms would finish the season with a dismal 3-7 record and for only the second time in the team's 10 seasons of hockey would not qualify for the post season. As the saying goes, Life Goes On.
